According to the National Student Loan Data System (NSLDS), you have one or more student loans that were discharged due to total and/or permanent disability. In order to be considered for a federal student loan, you must:

- Attach written documentation from your physician (on their letterhead) indicating that you are now able to engage in “substantial gainful activity” (you are able to work and earn money)
- Read and sign the Prior Loan Discharge Acknowledgement Statement below

PRIOR LOAN DISCHARGE ACKNOWLEDGEMENT STATEMENT

I understand and acknowledge that:

- The new loan I receive cannot be discharged in the future on the basis of any injury or illness present at the time the new loan is made, unless my condition substantially deteriorates so that I am again totally and permanently disabled.
- If my discharged loans are considered to be in the conditional discharge period, I understand that neither the previous conditionally discharged loan(s) nor the new loan I receive can be discharged in the future on the basis of any injury or illness present when I applied for a total and permanent disability discharge or at the time the new loan is made, unless my condition substantially deteriorates so that I am again totally and permanently disabled. I also understand that the conditionally discharged loan(s) will be removed from conditional discharge status.

I have read the acknowledgement above and am choosing to NOT access any federal direct loans towards my cost of attendance. If any disbursements have been made on my account after my discharge date, those funds will be returned and I am responsible for any balance due to the University.
